THE BOSTIN' BULLETIN NEWSLETTER

LAST MONTH'S BOSTIN ACHIEVENMENTS

BCTC is delighted to announce that we have become members of the Black Country Chamber of Commerce.

This membership opens the door to networking and partnership opportunities with local businesses, helping us strengthen the support available to people across the Black Country.

By working alongside other organisations in the community, we hope to build meaningful connections, share knowledge, and reach more of those who need us.

We are proud to be part of such a vibrant business community and look forward to what we can achieve together.

If you would like to connect or explore working together, get in touch.

THIS MONTH'S BOSTIN' BITS

BCTC Therapist Joins the Healing Collective at Oxford's Largest Trauma Conference

Meet the team of therapists who took part in the Healing Collective Team at the Largest Trauma event in Oxford.

What is the Healing Collective?

A global collective of trauma-informed practitioners, therapists, and healers, providing compassionate, human-centred support for attendees.

This year's Oxford Trauma Conference explored Science, Spirit and the Body: The Synthesis of Healing, bringing together research, lived experience, and embodied and spiritual practice. Workshops and lectures featured leading voices including Myira Khan, Gabor Maté, and Richard Schwartz, while the Healing Collective, with our BCTC therapist among its members, offered attendees compassionate, human-centred support throughout.
